

Mestco Terminal changes its name to MtLINK

Mestco Terminal Inc., a provider of value-added port logistics in Montréal-Est, has been renamed MtLINK following Logistec's acquisition of a majority stake in the business.

"We have been offering transloading and other container-related services at this location since 2010, and have built a solid customer base. Logistec is making significant investments to develop MtLINK to its full potential," said Madeleine Paquin, President and CEO of Logistec Corporation. "This facility is also a strategic fit with the CargoM vision of developing Montréal as a logistics hub, and will help support regional growth in the container sector."

MtLINK's new paper-grade warehouse will soon be ready to receive cargo. It will have four doors with direct access to rail, five docks to accommodate trucks of any size, and two ground-level oversized doors. MtLINK also offers inventory management services, including scanning and EDI, to both its short-term and long-term storage customers.

Additional site renovations will resume next spring, including paving the terminal. By early 2015, MtLINK customers will have access to additional laydown area, suitable for major projects and oversized pieces.

About MtLINK

MtLINK provides quality port logistics and transloading services such as crossdocking to and from trucks and railcars, as well as access to containers, crating, block and brace. The facility is located 4 kilometres east of the Port of Montréal's container terminals, with proximity to all major highways and dedicated on-terminal rail track.

MtLINK uses a variety of equipment, including lifters that handle up to 30 tonnes, and can accommodate a wide range of commodities such as steel, forest products, granite, concentrates, project cargo, and out-of-gauge.

The site offers flexible working hours and a safe, controlled storage environment.
